The Lives of Many Great Men Have Been Influenced by Visions—Frequently They Have Been Prophetic; at Other Times They Have Caused Tragedies.

The importance of the part played by dominant hallucinations in the history of the world can scarcely be overestimated. Julius Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte, Socrates, Luther, Ignatius Loyola, are but a few of the great men whose lives were intimately entwined with ruling delusions. In these cases the illusions seem to have been persistent and not to have been produced by any voluntary effort on the part of the seer. On the other hand, Talma could walk on to the stage and after staring at the brilliant and applauding audience for a few seconds could see nothing but rows of grinning skeletons. In this he seems to have forestalled Herr Roentgen, for the skeletons were in the exact positions of the members of the audience and changed their postures with every variation of their positions. It was to this grisly "house" that the great actor delivered some of his grandest histrionic efforts.

Goethe, as might be expected, called upon pleasure and more peaceful visions. At will he could see a flower in the center of his visual field. He thus described it: "This flower does not for a moment preserve its form; it is generally decomposed, and from its interior are born other flowers with colored, or sometimes green, petals. These are not natural flowers, but fantastic, nevertheless regular, figures, such as the roses of sculptures."

The capacity for thus producing at will a lovely object had, however, the disadvantage described by Abercrombie in his famous "Inquiry Concerning the Intellectual Powers," that they were not as a rule dissimilable at pleasure. Blake, after studying a model seated in a chair, could continue seeing her clearly when the chair was empty. This must have been an economical way of hiring a subject by the hour and would be an acceptable talent in these days of highly paid models. The ghostly case described by Sir Walter Scott of the man who knew that he was dying, and knew equally well that there was nothing whatever the matter with him, is perhaps too familiar to need more than passing mention. The black cat that this luckless man saw was, to use his own words, "no household cat, but a bubble of the elements which has no existence." This animal was as complex in form as the seer's metaphor, for it would turn suddenly into a court usher, and the usher in his turn would become a skeleton. This man showed no symptoms of insanity and was fully aware of the veracity of what he saw, which must greatly have added to the persistent misery of his condition.

An old gentleman described by the late Dr. Elgin had a power of conjuring up, often without voluntary effort, two or more charming dancing girls, and the antics of these nymphs continued until sleep came to the rescue. The old fellow was of a particularly pious and proper turn of mind, so that their gratuitous ballet was presumably wasted on him. Nicolai of Berlin, a very level headed gayard, was troubled for two months with the vision of a corpse. The hallucination lasted as a rule exactly eight minutes, and the body was apparently always steady at a uniform distance of about ten feet from the observer.

This trouble supervened suddenly after a violent quarrel in which Nicolai had been engaged. Ultimately the corpse and all the poor man's other delusions were driven back to their own sphere by the preside attacks of leeches on the temples. This treatment was also most effective in dispelling the visions of a certain clergyman in Hampshire late in the last century. He habitually engaged in personal encounters with the devil, until the leeches drove the foul fiend out of his visual field. Dr. Bostock, the psychologist, saw the heads of his friends "in relief, like medallions." Obviously enough, he could never conjure up their faces.

The great Napoleon was, as is generally known, invariably attended by a sun. This story was implicitly believed at the time, and it is said to have been first related by General Rapp, who, on visiting the monarch's tent at night, found Bonaparte excitedly pointing to a corner of the tent, crying: "Do you see that—my star? It is shining there before you!" At the period of the reformation wrestling with the evil one in propria persona was by no means an uncommon exercise. Luther several times indulged in these combats. Mr. Lecky tells us of the young monk who rushed up to St. Pachonius and Palemon in the desert and told them excitedly of the beautiful woman who had tempted him in his cell and who "having worked her purpose," had vanished miraculously in the air, leaving him half dead on the ground. The story goes on to say that the young monk, "with a wild shriek, broke away from the next village and there leaped into the open furnace of the public baths and perished in the flames."

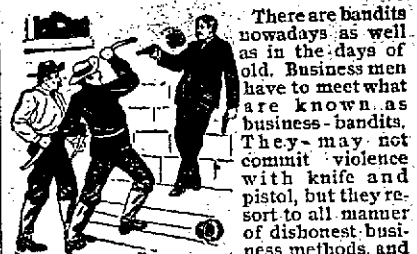

Cazotte was reported to have habitually dreamed with his eyes open, so that at the dinner party when he suddenly said that he saw Condorcet, who was one of the guests, in prison and taking poison to avoid the guillotine, no body paid much attention. The event, however, happened within two years under the precise circumstances described.—London Standard.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

There are bandits nowadays as well as in the days of old. Business men have to meet what are known as business-bandits. They may not commit violence with knife and pistol, but they resort to all manner of dishonest business methods, and the honest business man must be brave, strong and steady if he would meet and overcome them. The modern business man needs above all other qualifications—good health. Without good health, he may be naturally shrewd, bright and capable, but he will eventually fail. It takes a keen brain and steady nerves to be successful. Impure blood will befog the brightest brain and shake the steadiest nerves.

The greatest known blood-maker and purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, tones the liver, makes the appetite keen and assimilation perfect. Consequently the blood is plentifully supplied with the elements of nutrition and the body is properly nourished. It cures 98 per cent of all cases of consumption. All good druggists sell it.

H. Gaddis, Esq., of No. 313 & J. Street, Tacoma, Washington, writes: "I was taken ill in February 1895, with headache and pain in my back. I called in a doctor and he came three times. He said I was bilious, but I kept getting worse. I took a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it did me much good. I tried another one and it made me strong and well. I saved my life."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A large book of 1,008 pages over 300 illustrations. Every woman should have it. It is full of the information that women should possess. ## REVEALED IN A DREAM.

A Vision of a Gold Mine That In Reality Came to Pass.

To dream of a gold mine in a distant part of the country and from such data to locate the claim among hundreds of others is a piece of "luck that the oldest prospector would hardly dare to hope for."

Yet a woman living 200 miles from that El Dorado known to the outer world as Cripple Creek, following the dictates of a seven times repeated vision, has succeeded in doing this very thing, and is today operating one of the most successful mines in the whole district.

Seven consecutive times did Mrs. Law dream of the same place. In each vision appeared a tall pine, towering above the surrounding forest, and a deep ravine, with a stream of silvery water winding through it, deep sunk between two mountains. These mountains seemed characteristic of the country. They were abrupt peaks rising high above the surrounding foothills, outlined gray and cold against a bright blue sky. But what mountains they were, or what direction to take to find them, Mrs. Law had no idea.

A pleasure journey took her through Colorado. The way was long, and the trip across the seemingly eternal flat lands had become almost intolerable, when suddenly, as the train was entering the foothills, as the glanced through the car window, there arose before her astonished gaze, clear and distinct against the blue Colorado sky, the familiar twin mountains of her vision. As the train pursued its sinuous way there appeared before her waking eyes the valley which she had seen so often in sleep, and through the center flowed the silvery belt of water which had become so familiar.

"This is the land of my dreams, my El Dorado!" exclaimed Mrs. Law. "Gold is there, and I know it." Her exclamations excited some comment among the passengers, but no one thought seriously about it. But some weeks later Mrs. Law, accompanied by two friends and her husband—who had ceased to be skeptical—appeared on a backboard in the vicinity of what is now the outskirts of Cripple Creek, and with a determination not to be daunted by difficulties staked out a claim in the valley.

Mrs. Law was now able to organize a company, incorporated under the name of the Dream Lode Mining company. It was formed entirely of women, and a woman lawyer was employed to see that it was duly recorded in Kansas City with 200,000 shares at $1 each.—Philadelphia Press.

Bombs Loaded With Men.

A new bomb has been invented that is an extremely curious affair. It is called a "pioneer bomb" and is made to be fired from a cannon like an ordinary cannon ball. The curious part of it is that instead of carrying lead and explosives it is to have men inside. The idea of the invention, explains The Great Round World, is to fire soldiers into the enemy's camp. The bomb opens the moment it touches the ground, the men spring out and begin to fight the enemies within reach.

A shower of these bombs would very seriously inconvenience an enemy, it is to be supposed, for they would not quite know what to make of such astounding cannon balls.

The bomb is so arranged that there is no sudden jar or shock to the men inside. It is covered with a number of rubber tubes filled with air, like the bicycle tires. These rubbers prevent the men from any injury which might be caused by reaching the ground so suddenly. The bomb bounds along like a rubber ball once or twice, and the soldiers are said to be quite comfortable inside.—Chicago Record.

Wolsley's Close Call.

On one occasion Lord Wolsley's life was saved by Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, known as Count Gleichen. It was in the Crimea, when young Wolsley, badly wounded, was passed by the surgeon as dead. Undisturbed by the surgeon's remarks, Prince Victor tried to extract a jagged piece of stone which was sticking in the wound, and the prince succeeded in restoring Wolsley, for after a little brandy had been poured down his throat and more asseverations from the surgeon that he was dead, he sat up and exclaimed, "No more dead than you are, you fool!"—Liverpool Mercury.

Webster Under Suspicion.

The story is told that Daniel Webster, when on his way by stage coach to Washington once, was looked upon with suspicion by his traveling companions. Finally one of the latter tapped him on the knee and said:

"How far are you going?"

"I am going to Washington," answered Webster.

"Are you a merchant?" continued the inquirer.

"No! I am a senator," replied Webster.

"Well, well!" exclaimed the other, holding out his hand. "I am relieved. We feared you might be a highwayman."—Harper's Round Table.

An Anagram.

Somebody sends me the following anagram, as having a cation bearing on our occupation of Egypt, not to mention any other recent territorial acquisitions: "Great Britain—Grab, retain it!"—London Truth.

A cabman in one of the London police courts described golf as "what they knock the balls about with an iron thing up in Scotland."

It is not generally known that, with certain exceptions, the population of British isles are liable to conscription for the militia.

"I AM SO GLAD YOU CAME"

Pressing my hand, but stumbling at my name, "I am so glad you came," she said and smiled. Then turned to greet her guests, who filed past where she stood, fair in her fringed dress, of pinks and flowers. And still she spoke the same. Every unmeaning phrase to the chattering crowd. Of well clad dromedaries who compassed her about. And as I listened the remembrance came, of mother eyes that looked at his through tears. And mother arms, so eager to unfold. The wayward child she never ceased to hold near to her heart through lonely months and years. And mother lips, too tremulous to frame. These silly words, "I am so glad you came!"—J. L. Horton in "The Quilling Bee."

TORPEDO MINES.

A Deadly Force That Is Used in Modern Harbor Defenses.

Modern harbor defenses are described in St. Nicholas by Charles Rawson Thurston. He writes:

The torpedo mines are operated from mining casemates located at the entrances of harbors or bays, the exact situation and their interior arrangement being a department secret. Some mines are spherical in shape, about three feet in diameter, and constructed of steel. These, when in service, are expected to hold 100 pounds of high explosives and to float near the surface. But they must be concealed as well as buoyant, and so to each is attached by a cable a mushroom anchor to keep the torpedo just below the surface, out of sight and beyond the reach of the fire of machine guns.

These mines are intended for use in the channels that hostile ships would have to sail through, and are formed in threes and set closely in the channel according to plans previously arranged. If necessary, the sea off the entrance to a harbor or bay could be well filled with them. These mines may be exploded or may be perfectly harmless according to the will of the occupant of the mining casemate, who, with his important apparatus, is out of reach of shot and shell, there being tons of earth between him and the upper air.

Out from this chamber through a tunnel below low water mark, and hence safe from discovery by the enemy or shot from them, run numerous cables to the mines planted in the channel or in the sea. Within the chamber the operator has an elaborate chart with the location of every torpedo or mine upon it. By telegraph or other signals from observation stations near by he is kept informed of the approach of vessels, and acts as he thinks best under the circumstances. He may receive word from his stations to such effect that with his chart he knows a vessel is directly within a cluster of the sunken mines. Then he can explode beneath or near the vessel. If the vessel is a friendly one, however, the operator can disconnect his batteries, and the ship will sail in perfect safety over the tons of explosive beneath. If the weather be foggy, or if some other condition unfavorable for locating a vessel prevails, and enemies are known to be near, the pressing of many buttons will make every one of these mines a deadly force, and any ship that ventures in will strike a torpedo, roll it over, and automatically close an electric circuit, which will explode the mine, and the ship will be sunk or badly shattered. There are various devices for ascertaining that the hidden mines and connections are in good working order.

How Appointments Are Made.

Ex-President Harrison, in an article on "A Day With the President at His Desk," in The Ladies' Home Journal, gives the method by which appointments to public office are made by the president. "One of the cabinet officers," he writes, "appears by appointment, accompanied by a messenger with an armload or a basketful of papers—chiefly made up of petitions and letters relating to appointments. Each case has been briefed and jacketed, and one by one they are presented, the secretary adding such information as he has outside the papers. The conclusions reached are pupers. The conclusions reached are noted—to appoint a particular person or to postpone a further inquiry. The postmaster general brings a large clothes-basketful of papers, and an adjournment to the long cabinet table is necessary in order to display them. He takes up the papers relating to a postoffice and briefly states the case. If the case is decided, he fills in the blank on the jacket, 'Appointment,' the president affixes his initials, and the package is thrown back into the basket. A whole afternoon is often consumed in this way."

THE WOOL GROWERS ARE ANGRY.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, every member of which is from States east of the Missouri, prepared the tariff bill which recently passed the House of Representatives. No amendment to the bill, unless the amendment was offered by a Republican member of the committee, was adopted. Only a limited time was allowed for the discussion of the bill, though it was of national importance, and the 150 members comprising the minority of the House had no more to do with formulating its schedules than the Indians on the Pyramid Reservation.

Now it appears that while many of the schedules were embodied in the bill exactly as they were prepared by the trusts and manufacturers, exception was made to the wool schedule, which was arranged to suit the manufacturers and not the wool growers. The result is that the National Wool Growers Association is up in arms against the bill. In response to the call of Judge Lawrence of Ohio, President of the Wool Growers Association, a meeting was held at the Ebbitt House in Washington Wednesday to take steps toward presenting to the Senate Committee a request for the "promised ample protection for wool." The Executive Committee says the wool schedule in the new bill simply plays fast and loose with the industry. It gives ample protection to the wool manufacturers, but not to the wool growers. It is, they say, designed to benefit the East and ruin the West, and fails in almost every particular to come up to the requirements of the wool growers.

It is generally known that the Eastern manufacturers do not want a tariff on wool and hides, but insist on a high tariff on manufactures of wool and leather. Those manufacturers have prepared the schedules for every article in which they are concerned that have been incorporated in all the tariff bills placed upon the Statutes. The trusts and combinations which contributed funds to elect McKinley are all in the East and they are the people that the tariff bill, as passed by the House, is designed to benefit.

IS THE MINORITY RIGHT?

The House of Representatives is at present composed of 356 members. Of these 204 are Republicans and 150 Silver Democrats and Populists. The members of the minority are not permitted to offer amendments to a bill or even speak on a question before Congress except by special permission of the Committee on Rules. Speaker Reed, who is as despotic as any Oriental barbarian, will not recognize a member of the minority except on special occasions. This has disgraced men of the Simpson kind, who now propose to retaliate by compelling the dominant party to keep a quorum in the House during its sessions.

Now is the minority right? Should they require the Republicans, who have a majority of 50 over all opposition, to attend in sufficient number to make with the minority members present, a quorum, that is 179 members of the House? It would seem that the majority should furnish the greater part of a quorum, yet Jerry Simpson asserts that they do not and that the House is frequently without a quorum and he proposes, unless he is overruled by the Speaker, that the minutes shall not be approved unless there is a quorum present. Simpson is aggressive and, being an adept in parliamentary tactics, will cause the majority a little uneasiness at least by insisting on a quorum for the transaction of business.

RIDICULES THE CONFERENCE.

The London papers ridicule the idea of anything practical resulting from the appointment of a Commission by President McKinley to promote an international agreement to restore silver. Russia is irrevocably committed to the gold standard as is also Austria and several other European nations and the gold trust, which controls them all, is opposed to the remonetization of silver. No person, who pays any attention to the financial situation, has much faith in the conference. The gold men are deriving too much profit from the distress caused by the adoption of the single gold standard to favor bimetalism and their wishes are respected in Europe as they are by the dominant party in the United States.

There is only one way to restore silver and that is for the people to elect a Congress that will pass a free coinage bill and a President that will approve the bill when passed by Congress. The Constitution empowers Congress to coin money and regulate the value thereof, and it is ridiculous as well as humiliating to ask permission of Europe to do what the Constitution authorizes us to do ourselves.

The position of the Assistant Secretary of War seems for some reason or other not to be a popular office. President McKinley has tendered it to two different parties, but both have respectfully declined. If he would only cast his eye over Reno aspirants for public favor, it is quite probable that he could persuade someone to accept the appointment and there would certainly be no trouble in finding a stalwart in the State who would willingly serve his country at a fair salary. There are ten or fifteen such persons less than fifty miles from Reno who are waiting for lightning to strike them from Washington.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES:

The employees of the Karney Foot File Works at Patterson, N. J., struck yesterday. The company employs 500 persons.

The balloting on the Kentucky Senator yesterday showed no material change from the day before. Three ballots were taken.

Representative Holman of Indiana, who is at death's door, is reported as slightly improved and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

The Columbia Spinning Company has placed an attachment on the Lambeth Rope Company of New Bedford, Mass., amounting to $100,000.

Mrs. S. M. Hanna, mother of Senator Hanna, died at Asheville, N. C., yesterday of pneumonia. She was only sick a few days, and was 84 years old.

The Greek-Turkish war news shows honors about even. The Greeks knocked the Turks out at Macedonia, and the Turks reversed matters at Kratia.

British societies in San Francisco are divided and at odds. Owing to this there will be two jubilee celebrations in that city of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.

The Great Falls National Bank of Summersworth, N. H., was entered by robbers yesterday afternoon and Joseph Stuckney, the cashier, was brained with a slung shot and his throat cut.

A fire at the Berkeley University yesterday entirely destroyed the building occupied as the College of Agriculture. The fire is supposed to have started from an explosion of chemicals. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

Secretary Alger has received detailed reports from inspecting officers sent to investigate the condition of the flooded country in the South. The inspectors report 19,000 destitute persons and 4,000 square miles flooded.

The identity of D. Cameron of Albany, N. Y., who shot himself at the Imperial Hotel at Chicago, is still a mystery. He is believed to be the son of a wealthy San Francisco mine owner, but this fact has not been established.

The dead body of Jose Oschon, an aged Spaniard, was found sitting in a chair in the cabin he had occupied in Chico Canyon, Cal. The body was terribly decomposed. An autopsy revealed the cause of death to be strangulation.

Indications point strongly to the withdrawal of a large part of the Spanish troops from Cuba. The Spanish insist that it means that the insurrection is at an end, while the Cubans say that it is because of the lack of money on the part of the Spanish Government.

James Hunter of Oakland, Cal., played the races high on Thursday, he being the owner of Goldbug, a defeated horse. He had been losing heavily all week, and as the race in which Goldbug was to run was called he remarked that he had everything on the horse, and if he lost no one would ever see him again. He remained long enough to see the race and disappeared. His friends believe that he committed suicide.

A horrible crime occurred at Sakett's Harbor, N. Y., Thursday night. Geo. Allen, a steward at the army headquarters, hired a carriage and took May Daily, a young lady, and Mrs. Crouch, a divorced woman, for a drive. At 4:30 yesterday morning the horse returned to the livery stable drawing the carriage containing the dead bodies of the two women. The authorities were at once notified. Shortly afterwards Allen came staggering into the settlement in a weakened condition, and he, too, is expected to die. In an ante mortem statement he said that Crouch, the former husband of one of the women, assaulted them, killing the two women and throwing him into the creek. Crouch is under arrest.

A Practical Man on Trib.

No veterinarian on the Pacific Coast has had a longer experience, nor has any man had a more successful practice with horses than Dr. Burns, of Virginia, Nev.

He makes the following statement: VIRGINIA CITY, Jan. 27, '97. A valuable mare driven by Superintendent Lyman of the Con. Virginia mine on the Comstock Lode, had been in the stable unable to work, from the kick of another animal, received on the inside of the right foreleg above the knee. The skin had been broken and the muscles and tendons severely bruised. During a week's time I had given the limb such treatment, as from thirty years' professional experience I thought beneficial; but without avail. The leg was swollen to nearly twice its natural size, and the swelling would not yield to treatment. On Thursday evening, June 18, 1896, I made the first application of the liniment, Trib, thoroughly rubbing in half a six ounce bottle over the whole leg. I applied it regularly twice a day for the next three days. On the fourth day the mare went to work completely cured—the most surprising and satisfactory cure coming under my observation during a lifetime devoted to the treatment of horses.

During the past eight months, I have used your liniment regularly in my practice. Trib fulfills all its promises. An especially valuable feature of Trib is that while it has all the penetrating strength of the most powerful liniments it does not blister.

For love of the horse and the fellowship of horsemen, I offer this testimony. I know that Trib will benefit both.

NANNY AND THE CUB.

Like and Dislike of a Bear That Was Suckled by a Goat.

The bear that figures in the story is known as Jack, and he belongs to Lewis Ford, who formerly owned a goat ranch high up on the Cerro Colorado mountain, overlooking the lovely valley of the San Joaquin.

Ford found the bear when it was a cub, soft, round, shining and black. Being wifeless, childless and alone, he adopted the tiny cub and carried it home. Once there, Ford soon found that a foster mother must be provided for the infant, and so a frightened, trembling, bleating goat was brought to the house to take the place of the parent he so missed. It was only after much combined force and persuasion the goat could be induced to adopt as her own the unlikeliest orphan placed in her care. But the time came when foster mother and foster child were as happy and content in their relations to each other as if the sight of a nimble footed, blue haired "nanny" suckling a clumsy black bear cub was of the most ordinary condition of affairs. The bear waxed fat on goat's milk and a more docile, tractable beast never grew up under the guardianship of a humane and loving master. In the earlier days of his adoption the baby was a baby in truth. He would not be left alone, and it would have been a harder heart than Ford's that could have resisted the pitiful whimper of the little fellow whenever he thought that he was to be left alone in the house. Had there been any to see it in those days they would have witnessed a strange sight. The great, broad shouldered man, following his flock as they grazed on the bunch grass—sometimes five or six miles from home—and as he walked the steep mountain side, where it was so nearly perpendicular that it seemed that only the goats themselves could gain a foothold on the rocks, carried the cub in his arms.

When Jack grew older, he was trained to herd goats. Previously a number of dogs had helped Ford, but the bear and the dogs could not agree, and so the dogs had to go. Jack took their place well, and they were never missed. For several years the bear continued to help Ford until the latter sold his ranch and prepared to go to his old home in Europe. Then a number of his neighbors tried to buy the bear. Ford refused to sell him and said that if he could not take Jack with him he would not go. The difficulty about shipping the bear was overcome, and now he and his master are living contentedly in the old country, enjoying the fruits of their long, homesome stay in the California mountains. San Francisco Call.

Wagner on Young Von Bulow.

"I have followed the youthful developing period of your son's life with cognizance and sympathy, without exercising any other influence upon him than that of my example as an artist and of my most cautious advice. I have observed that his love of art, and especially of music, is based upon no mere transient excitement, but upon a genuine, uncommon—powers. It was with my special concurrence, and indeed at my suggestion, that he went on with his law studies with undiminished zeal, as there is nothing so repugnant to me as a musician who is that alone without any higher general culture. At the wish of his family he applied himself also to the study of jurisprudence. Full of devotion to his mother, he tried hard to take an interest in this study, which, in reality, went dreadfully against his grain. And now what is the perfectly clear and evident result of all his pains and experience? Simply the outspoken, absolute conviction that the more he sets the one thing against the other the more he feels that it is art alone—in other words, music—that he can love unceasingly. This one thing, my dear lady, stands first and foremost as an undeniable fact, and I cannot doubt that, when once you yourself are convinced of this wish of your son to devote himself entirely to music, you will make it your own wish also."—"The Early Correspondence of Hans von Bulow."

A Wrong Supposition.

"The people moved out of that house this morning, and that is the landlord just going in." "He appears to have a great many prospective tenants." "Prospective tenants, indeed! They are only neighbors going to see in what condition the people left the house."—London Fun

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Tilton, the wife of Theodore Tilton, once a prominent figure in New York society, died last Tuesday. Her death was not made public for some time after it occurred. She was one of the principal actors in the Tilton-Beecher suit, which shook Plymouth Church to its foundation, and though Beecher was pronounced innocent of illicit relations with Mrs. Tilton, the church declared Mrs. Tilton guilty of criminal intimacy with Beecher, and idolized the man while it ostracized the woman. Such is life.

The Western Union repair and construction force, which has been moving the telegraph office for the past two weeks, left for Hot Springs last night and will repair the lines through to Ogden, a work of some months.

When she was a child she lived in California. When she became Mrs. she came to California. When she had children she gave them California.

STATE CAPITAL NOTES.

Reminiscences of the Late Contest.—The Editor JOURNAL.—The contest of the century, which occurred just four weeks ago to-day, is no more a general topic. The heavy losses incident to the betting on Corbett fell to a great extent upon the chief promoters of the fight, such as A. Livingston and Tim Dempsey, both popular and prosperous gentlemen of Carson. They intend to play more than even during the coming fall. Had they ignored tips and instead depended upon their own judgment by studying the relative records of the pugilists, and watching the latter's training closely, which was within their every day's reach, the financial result with them would have been quite the reverse.

As a matter of course, Carson once more moves in its natural groove, which is an exceedingly drowsy one. The last of the Eastern contingent to show this city a clean pair of heels—in the true sense of that phrase—belonged to the so-called impecunious "tinhorn" type. They were compelled to wait for more favorable weather, as owing to the watchfulness of the V. & T. crews it is almost next to impossible to beat the brake beam. This fact has for years been admitted by every tramp interviewed in the premises.

By the way, without intending to cast a slur on religion, the prayer meetings held at Reno during the hour of the contest may serve the wicked—Carson. It is a novel pointer in the event of the next great battle occurring in Reno. They may invoke the Powers above, not for the purpose of stopping the fight, but to be merciful by not letting Reno have all of them, preserving a few for Carson. At last accounts, our esteemed Governor and all the rest of the fighting legislators, including A. M. McAffee, the Gazette's buldog of the Elko county delegation, are "very much" alive. Considering all things pugilistic, Carson sports do not appear to worry much, for the mammoth arena, so long as it stands, will be their guardian angel.

Besides, Dan Stuart sends word that he will visit Carson in May or June to arrange for another carnival in September to outstrip the one held on the 17th of March to one, as far as the course of people is concerned.

Great activity is manifested in the preparations for the coming lumbering season at Lake Tahoe. Bliss & Co. were indeed fortunate in selling to Dan Stuart the lumber used in the construction of the coliseum for the magnificent sum of $4,200. It is doubtful if half that price could have been realized under different circumstances. In all likelihood that lumber might have remained on the hands of the company for an indefinite period for lack of building demands, thereby reducing its value almost to zero.

THE CARSON DAILIES

Beyond the dearth of more congenial reading matter the existing feud between the editors of the Appeal and the News attracts very little interest in this community. For the present an armistice of uncertain duration has been declared.

While the Appeal editor, with the same testimony as presented to the late Ormsby County Grand Jury, claims to have a clear case against the U. S. District Attorney, the opinion of a good many people here prevails that C. A. Jones has scored another important point by having his preliminary examination in the assault case held at Reno, if for no other reason than to put Sam Davis to greater inconvenience. At the same time not one word is heard against the integrity or impartiality of Judge Waldo, the U. S. Commissioner, as a committing magistrate.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Wm. McOlven, the injured railroad man, is sure to recover. He enjoys the care of a devoted family. Dan McDonald succeeded him as conductor of the ore train. No other changes have occurred on the local train. The genial Jerry Bray and Jas. Costello are still there.

The Carson river is muddy and booming. It is a pity that its vast volume of water should run to waste past the six or seven silent mills.

The local gossip consists of ex-Governor O'Connell the next Superintendent of the Mint. They have furthermore settled the fact that the U. S. District Attorneyship lies between ex-Supreme Justice Murphy and Senator Sardin Summerfield, the latter being the favorite, as one of the few gold Republicans who managed to become elected to an important office, according to E. D. Vanderlieth and O. H. Grey do not seem to be "in it."

N. A. Hummel of the Wadsworth Dispatch has likewise a pronounced following. To the writer his long and creditable experience as an educator, his splendid oratorical delivery, and lastly his fine executive ability as an arbitrator in many well known disputes, combine qualities which render him an eminently fit person to take charge of an Indian Agency.

Judge Healy has long since been the recognized poet of Carson. In addition to being a gentleman of high attainments and a veritable Chesterfield, he possesses not only the rare ability to recite, but also sing his compositions. He is a favorite with the cultured "Four Hundred" of this town. The ladies, particularly, become so charmed with the judge that they forget their regular dinner and retiring hours. Two of his poems set to music, will be published in the near future. "The King and the Muleteer" is the title of one, the other is a Spanish love song and only awaits the instrumentation. As to the latter effusion, the reader may form his own idea concerning ing the merits of the whole composition by reading the beautiful sentiment contained in the refrain, "mi corazon, mi vida, mi alma!"—"I'm dreaming in Spanish of you. Only the verb 'dreaming' is appropriately changed for each of the two other verses into 'thinking' and 'writing'."

OSCAR HILDEBRANDT.

WEATHER BULLETIN

(Copyright, 1896, by W. T. Foster.)

St. Joseph, Mo., Apr. 17.—My last bulletin gave forecast of the storm wave to cross the continent from April 22nd to 28th.

The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 27th, cross the west of Rockies country by the close of the 28th, the great central valleys 28d to May 1st, Eastern States May 2d. The warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 27th, the great central valleys 29th, Eastern States 1st. The cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 30th, great central valleys May 2nd, Eastern States May 4th.

The week ending April 24th will average cooler than usual and numerous local showers may be expected, but not sufficient rains for the needs of the crops.

A Model Store.

Charlie Lake has just completed renovating, painting and decorating his store on Virginia street. The goods were removed from the shelves and every nook and cranny in the place received a thorough cleaning and painting. Jack Murray, the decorator, did the work and the bright new paper on the ceiling and walls and linoleum on the floor gives the store a handsome appearance. The stock is freshened up and additions of the latest goods in the line are being unpacked.

Special pains will be taken to cater to the wants of patrons and in the novelty, book and periodical line nearly anything wanted may be found. Cigars, tobacco and smokers' articles will be made a specialty. Mr. Lake will also fill any orders that come within his particular line of goods, should he not happen to have such goods in stock.

His store will also be the central office and headquarters of the Nevada Telephone, Telegraph, Construction Company, of which Mr. Lake is a stockholder, and every facility will be afforded to subscribers to the company or the public for prompt service over its lines, which it is expected will soon be connected with Carson, Genoa and Gardnerville and intermediate points also Verdi. Mr. Lake is one of our most enterprising young men and never hesitates to enter into any project for the advancement and upbuilding of the town.

Offenders Liable to Fine.

Chief of Police McNulty believes that as spring cleaning and renovating is now in order, the attention of property owners and others should be called to Ordinance No. 19, section 6 and 7, which read as follows:

No person shall throw or cause to be thrown or deposited, any dirt, rubbish, ashes, paper or other matter whatsoever in any street, alley, gutter or highway within the limits of the town of Reno.

No person shall kindle or use any fire on any public street, alley or highway or anywhere in the open air within the town limits without first having obtained a written permit.

The usual penalties are provided for disobedience of the ordinance.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 189 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this remedy for coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

Intensely Patriotic.

The bell on the High School gives out a tone that indicates that it is badly cracked. Can it be possible that Principal Bray has become so intensely patriotic that he is crying in a small way to reproduce the effect of the old liberty bell at Philadelphia in order to give his pupils an object lesson of how liberty to the nation was first proclaimed.

Student's Congress.

The Student Congress will meet at the court-house this evening at 7:30 sharp. In addition to the regular debate an address by Judge A. E. Cheney on the best method of preparation for debate will be a feature of to-night's session.

Baseball Game.

A baseball game will be played between the Carson Club and the Corona Club of Reno at the University grounds next Friday. It is expected that a special train will run from Carson and a big crowd will accompany the Carson players.

Regents Will Meet To-Day.

The Board of Regents will meet at 2 o'clock to-day, at which time the bids for the building of the Mechanical building will be opened and considered. Builders and contractors will be interested in the result.

ARBOR DAY.

Yesterday Observed as Such in the Public Schools.

The public schools took time by the forelock yesterday and planted their seeds a week ahead of the date set by the Governor. The season of advancing the date was that many trees planted in the latter part of April heretofore have failed to live. The warm weather of the past few days had advanced vegetation so rapidly that the School Board thought it best to observe the day this week.

Exercises appropriate to the day were held in all the grades and much interest was taken in the work. Several trees, some shrubs, and more or less flower seed were planted. The plots about the steps have been improved this year by the teachers and pupils of the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Second and First Grades, and if they are properly cared for it will add much to the beauty of the grounds.

In several of the grades the pupils furnished money to buy trees, but so many trees died last year that the School Board will have to provide twenty more. There is a disposition manifest all around to keep the school grounds, as well as the buildings, in good condition. And the spirit of the public will cordially approve.

The principal exercises of the day were held in the High School room, Miss Schadler's division of the Alpha Literary Society being the participants. The High school pupils did some very clever work in the way of readings, compositions, songs and recitations, reflecting much credit on themselves and Miss Schadler. An especially excellent feature of the exercises was the flower cantata, in which eight interesting young ladies sang very beautifully the praises of various flowers, each representing a flower. The young ladies were, Ivan Session, Florence Roche, Cecil Linn, May Wilson, Bernice Worland, Addie Quinn, Ila Bradshaw and Loris Smith. The piece ought to be presented for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A., as it would be sure to draw well.

The public schools have set us all a good example. Let us clean up yards, plant and sow, spring is at hand. Would it not be well for the Governor to name an earlier date hereafter for Arbor Day?

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys, will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. per bottle at Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Diphtheria Cure.

The testimony of a prominent physician:

FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind., June 17, 1896. This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects. In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica with that left out.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children when teething. It disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth, and at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

The Viatic Cause.

It is impossible to take Viatic into the system without benefit. It is purely vegetable and as a nerve and tissue builder has no equal. It can be used with perfect safety by the most delicate, and is used upon the smallest children.

Patrons of the remedy can consult our physicians free of charge. I will take pleasure in explaining its various uses to all who may call.

Mrs. E. E. HUNTER.
